

After the Vote

Jun Togo

The importance of democracy is taught in many countries.

One day there was a dispute over a temperature in the classroom.

They could not end the argument, so they have agreed to decide by majority rule.

It was decided by majority rule. Now let's lower the temperature.

Eh? It seems that the man who was rejected looks really cold.

The needs of people, who were rejected,
are still left as they were,
even if it was decided by majority rule.
